

Mnemosyne is a semantic document search system.

The platform allows users to upload documents and retrieve relevant information using semantic similarity instead of traditional keyword matching.

This improves information discovery and retrieval accuracy.